Hancock is one of the oldest settlements in Western Maryland. The town was named after Edward Joseph Hancock, Jr. who was considered a hero in the American Revolution who fought alongside General George Washington. Hancock is the site of one of the earliest Civil War Battles and where the Union forces repulsed Stonewall Jackson's attack from across the Potomac. Visit our Museum and Visitors center to learn about our Civil War history, the orchard industry, the Sidling Hill Geology Exhibit and more. TownofHancock.org

The Canal Towns Partnership is an economic and community development program along the C&O Canal NHP. It is designed to assist the communities along the C&O Canal NHP to reap the multiple benefits of trail-based tourism and recreation. The program encourages an active lifestyle for residents and visitors alike.

The C&O Canal Trust, as the official nonprofit partner of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal National Historical Park, works in partnership with the National Park Service and local communities to raise funds to preserve the Park for future generations and to broaden support through programs that highlight the Park's historical, natural and cultural heritage and recreational opportunities.

POINT OF ROCKS, MD

The Point of Rocks (Baltimore & Ohio) Railroad Station (c.1876) is one of the most photographed train stations in the nation.

Point of Rocks is still a small country town and continues to serve as a convenient travel crossroads location, boasting a peaceful setting along the Potomac River in the shadow of Catoclin Mountain.

Nearby attractions include the Point of Rocks Train Station, a boat ramp, and historic canal structures such as a pivot bridge, lock houses and the Catoclin Aqueduct. In late September each year, the community celebrates its annual Art at the Point Festival, which showcases art, music and children activities, and features running events along the canal.
